

Linux Exercise: Nine to Five

The file_usage.gz file contains information on low level access to web pages.

Explore the file, its format and the data it contains.

What are the typical working hours?

Extra: print an ASCII histogram of number of usages (in kb) per hour using only awk for the printing (print a single '*' per one thousand events). Where around the world would you locate the users?